UCSF Reduces Traffic

Five hundred fewer vehicles are being driven to UCSF by employees and students, said Robert LaPointe, special assistant, UCSF Chancellor's Office. The UCSF Transportation Systems Management (TSM) is responsible for this, and according to LaPointe, can potentially reduce even more traffic over the next five years by approximately 500 vehicles daily. The program has been so effective that the S.F. Department of City Planning has modeled its recently created Joint Institutional Transportation Systems Management Program, which LaPointe chairs, after it.

To accomplish the reduction of traffic congestion and parking demand in the surrounding neighborhood, the campus hired a consulting firm, Deleuw Cather and Company Engineers and Planners, who evaluated the program that existed and examined ways to improve it. Their plan, adopted in September 1977, provides alternate modes of transportation including commuter buses to Marin, which service between 250 and 300 people; 19 vanpools; more than 200 carpools; 4 university pooling cars for S.F. residents; daily shuttle bus service to and from SFGH, Center for Education Development, the VA Medical Center, U.S. Public Health Service Hospital, and the UCSF student housing complex on Mt. Sutro. The UCSF transportation office also sells BART and MUNI tickets.

Fourteen institutions, all of which have significant parking and transportation impact on their adjacent residential or commercial neighborhoods, will be implementing similar plans through the City's TSM program. These institutions are: S.F. State University, University of S.F., City College of S.F., and several hospitals and medical centers — SFGH, Mount Zion, Pacific Medical Center, Children's, Marshal Hale, Kaiser, St. Mary's, Ralph K. Davies Medical Center, and the VA. One private company, the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company, has also adopted the plan.

The Joint Institutional Transportation Systems Management Program conforms with the City's "transit first" policy, according to Rai Okamoto, director of the City Planning Department. He says, "It is a program that we're very interested in and that we enthusiastically support."

The report of success of transportation program was made by UCSF Chancellor Francis A. Sooy at a meeting last week of the UCSF Campus-Community Planning Committee, which has 16 members and observers from 14 neighborhood groups. They include: John Bardis, Inner Sunset Action Committee; Hervey Luster, Page and Laguna Neighborhood; Evelyn Wilson, Sunset-Parkside Education and Action; Rick Nichols, Haight-Ashbury Improvement; Hugh Bell, Sunset Heights Association of Responsible People; Dr. Oscar Jackson, Haight-Ashbury Business and Professional Association; Marilyn Smulyan, Haight-Ashbury Neighborhood Council; Rosario Anaya, Mission District; Wayne Rieke, S.F. Department of City Planning; Aji Paravil, Inner Sunset Merchants; Dr. Lester B. Jacobson, Edgewood Neighborhood; Susan Singer, Woodland Avenue; Gary Faldesy and Bernard Bour, Twin Peaks Improvement; Kay Field, Forest Knolls Neighborhood; Harry Ritter, Sunset Community Improvement Club.

Free Exploratorium Exhibits

The Exploratorium in conjunction with UCSF and other health care institutions and agencies is sponsoring a continuing series of month-long exhibits on the instrumentation and technology of current medical research and practice. Various UCSF departments and faculty members are participating in this series which is an effort to bring firsthand experience and understanding into the field of health technology.

The topic for March is "The Heart and the Lungs" with Debbie Schwab, UCSF head nurse in Cardiology and the Chest Clinic giving a lecture on Saturday, March 24 at 3 p.m.

Remaining monthly topics are: April — Movement and the Body: Muscle and Bone; May — Imaging the Body: From X-rays to Ultrasound; and June — Technology in Treatment: Cancer Therapy.

Visitors of all ages are invited to attend this free series. The Exploratorium, located at 3601 Lyon Street, is open Saturdays and Sundays, 1-5 p.m.

Poison Prevention Week: March 18-23

During National Poison Prevention Week, March 18-23, the S.F. Bay Area Regional Poison Center is urging all families to "Join Officer Ugg's Poison Patrol." Poison prevention information displays starring "Officer Ugg," the symbol of the Poison Center, will be at the outpatient and pediatric clinics at both the UCSF Ambulatory Care Center and the SFGH Medical Center.

Sheets of "Officer Ugg" stickers in blue and green can be used to identify poisonous products. On the back of each sheet, there is a list of such products found in most homes. To obtain a sheet of stickers, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the S.F. Bay Area Regional Poison Center, Rm. 1E6, San Francisco General Hospital Medical Center, 1001 Potrero Ave., S.F., CA 94110.

The Center, located at SFGH, is made possible by the UCSF Schools of Pharmacy and Medicine, the S.F. Department of Public Health, and Department of Health, Education and Welfare Emergency Medical Services project grants to San Mateo, East Bay and North Coast Counties. The displays are sponsored by the School of Pharmacy in cooperation with the Department of Pharmaceutical Services at UCSF and the Hospital Pharmacy at SFGH.

Free Health Tests at Dudley Stone April 5

UCSF will participate with 16 other Bay Area institutions in the KRON-TV health fair week. UCSF's Office of Public Service Programs has coordinated student volunteers from the Schools of Dentistry, Nursing and Pharmacy to participate at the Dudley Stone School Auditorium, Haight and Masonic, on Thursday, April 5, from 3-7 p.m.

Blood pressure tests, dental screening, anemia tests, blood chemistries, counseling and referrals will be available. All of the tests are free with the exception of an optional SMA 12 blood test (runs 12 separate tests) at a nominal cost of $5-$7 per person.

The national health fair week is sponsored jointly in S.F. by KRON, the National Broadcasting Company's affiliate station, and the National Health Screening Council for Volunteer Organizations, Inc., located at Bethesda. During last year's health fair week, held in Los Angeles, New York, Chicago and Washington, D.C., more than $20,000,000 of free health screening was given to approximately 140,000 people, and more than 70,000 health abnormalities were detected.

Participating groups in the Bay Area, in addition to UCSF, are the American Red Cross, Lion's Club, Army Reserves, Bay City College, Bryman College, Contra Costa College, VA Medical Center, S.F. Emergency Medical Services, Pruett College, S.F. Dental Society, Cancer Society, College of Podiatric Medicine, St. Luke's School of Nursing, S.F. State University and the National Guard.
